MURDERED!

Dr. C. W. Page Colored Veterinarian of Maysville Found Dead—Foul Play Suspected

A telephone message was received here last night stating that Dr. C. W. Page, the well known colored veterinarian, had been found dead in bed at Lexington. Foul play is suspected. Dr. W. C. Patton left this morning to be present at the autopsy that will be held at 10 o'clock.

Page's body was found lying upon his bed undressed and appeared to have been lifeless ten or twelve hours, or since some time Wednesday night. There was no indication of a struggle before death, nor were there external wounds.

The cause of his death is unknown, but foul play is suspected because of his gold watch and some money being missed from his clothing, and because of a negro man having been seen to come from the room after the time Page is believed to have died.

A suit was pending here for a divorce from his wife.

BIG INGEN WALLOPED

Maysville Defeats Paris 3 to 2 and Retains Lead For Pennant

Beer the Bully Boy Yesterday and His Pitching Puzzled Parisians

PARIS, Ky., July 18.—Paris lost to Maysville in a game at White Park this afternoon by the score of 3 to 2. The Indians, Bonlosh, pitched for the home team. It is his third game and he has lost all of them by a narrow margin in each case, and not generally through his fault. This afternoon the visitors secured ten hits off Bonlosh to five by the locals off Beer, but Bonlosh kept the hits well scattered except in the seventh inning, when four hits in succession netted three runs.

Only two of the home team were able to hit Beer at all, Mollenkamp getting three out of the five hits, one of them being a double, and Danie Harrell getting the other two, a single and a double. The rest of the team were perfectly helpless before him.

It goes without saying that a ball team cannot win games without hitting. Outside the hitting of Mollenkamp and Harrell, the feature of the game was the fine work of Locke at short, eight chances being accepted without an error.

The score:

Paris.....0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0-2 Maysville...0 0 0 0 0 0 3 0-3

Earned Runs—Paris, 1; Maysville, 3. Two-base hits—Harrell, Kunkle, Beer, Carmody, Mollenkamp. Base on Balls—Off Beer, 1; off Grover, 1. Struck Out—By Grover, 2; by Beer, 10; by Bonlosh, 5. Left on Base—Paris, 6; Maysville, 9. Hit by Pitcher—Chapman, Locke, Snyder. Stolen Bases—Langensham, 2; Snyder, Harrell, Chapman. Sacrifice Hits—Carmody, Comigore, Williams. Four hits, two runs off Beer in 3½ innings. Time—2:05. Umpire—Franklin.

Anyhow Theodore Roosevelt believes in advertising.

Col. Roosevelt certainly fools a lot of the people all the time.

Why not send the Boy Scouts out to Kansas to harvest the big wheat crop?

Champ Clark's hound dog is now back in his kennel and is not even barking.

If it growls it is the Tammany tiger, if it purrs it is from Princeton.—Washington Star.

Senator Tillman's aged tears over Lorimer's exit were enough to make the gods cry out in anguish.

A store may get along without advertising, but its like the family who tries to live on two meals a day.

It might be thought that Rockefeller wasn't getting any oil up these times from the way he is putting it up.

Col. Bryan has met the fate that sooner or later overtakes every ambitious orator—he has talked himself out.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Its rather jarring to have Uncle Sam to spend $400,000,000 to dig the Panama canal and then have the Britishers to want to use it for nothing.

Reformers are always desirable, but these do not possess half the fascination for Mr. Roosevelt as the prospect of another residence at the White House.

Colonel Roosevelt says the cost of living is too high. Still, people would not feel specially unfortunate if they could get along without any Roosevelts.—St. Louis Times.

To suit the Southern delegates the Democratic tariff plank should read "a tariff for revenue only, except upon such products as our state grows, and then only the limit of the blue sky."—Commercial Tribune.

The Lexington Leader discussing the State Republican Committee's recent meeting at Louisville, has the following to say:

"The organization of a state Campaign Committee was discussed in open session, and the sentiment was almost unanimous that Mr. William D. Cochran, of Maysville, would make an ideal chairman. He was out of the State and could not be reached to secure his acceptance, but the feeling was so general that he was chosen by unanimous vote, with authority to select his associates in the immediate work of the campaign, the only other selection made being the designation of Secretary A. S. Bennett, of the State Committee, as secretary also of the Campaign Committee.

"Mr. Cochran is a staunch friend and admirer of President Taft and has his entire confidence; he was delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention, and is such an excellent and fitting selection for the campaign chairmanship that it is earnestly hoped he will accept the post on his return to Kentucky."

The kind of "progress" that concerns Mr. Roosevelt more than any is that which should land him at the White House.

Prof. Edward Robertson of the University of Chicago says there never was a Garden of Eden. He has spent years on the hunt and now writes that it was "folly." He denies the claims of critics, who have placed the Garden variously in Armenia in Babylonia, in Arabia and elsewhere. When the old snoozer gets through growling he should come to the Kentucky Blue Grass region where the Garden of Eden is open for 365 days in the year.

This school teacher, Wilson, from New Jersey, who wants to be President on the Democratic ticket, is a rank Free-Trader. He stands for the bringing into this country the Asiatics, whom he said in his history, are more desirable than immigrants from southern Europe, including Hungarians, and Poles and Italians. "Take the Tariff off," says Wilson. Sure thing. Let in all the world's products and let our own labor and lands slide into the bottomless pit. Already Argentine and Australia are branching out to supply us with meat and hides, because those countries believe that Free-Trade is to be fastened on to the United States.—Pueblo (Colo.) Opinion.

Banking Reform now seems assured. Both of the great parties have declared for it in their national platforms. This is due in a large measure to the earnest and conscientious work of the National Citizens' League, which has brought the matter home to the people, and crystallized the sentiment for the adoption of a law which will take this country out of its unenviable position of being the only one in the civilized world that suffers from periodical panics, which wreck fortunes, throw millions of men out of work and causes untold suffering and want. Banking reform is purely a business question. There is no politics in it and it is hoped that our lawmakers will legislate on the subject with a patriotic desire to do the whole country a service.

The Climbers

Flora, Dear: Your letter rather piqued me. Your accusations were uncalled for. I am not acerbic; neither have I evaded your questions purposely. Judson Barnett, or "Jack," as we now call him, is a wonderfully clever, interesting man, and I admire him exceedingly. You may safely gratify your curiosity with the information that I am not in love with him.

Weren't you surprised to receive my card postmarked Switzerland? This has been rightly designated the "playground of Europe." I have had such a perfect time and dislike to think that but one more week remains to enjoy the scenery.

I have actually climbed five giant mountains of the Alps. Aren't you envious? Our party arrived at Lucerne during the late afternoon, and when I viewed those majestic mountains, hedged about with mystery—the glaciers filling the neighboring valleys—the snowpeaks, whose white outline against the sky was camel-like in its clearness, I longed to reach their summits. Jack and a few others voiced the same desire, and our consuming ambition became to add notches to our alpenstocks.

Early next morning we ascended Rigi to see the sun rise. What an inspiring sight! Far below flowed the River Rhone, and there was Lucerne surrounded with its walls and nine toll houses, resembling a "fair city" held in the fastness of the mountains by some powerful enchanter.

The pink-gold light of dawn heralding the approach of day touched each tip of the towers, then spread over the flowery fields of the valley. This seemed strange when we were surrounded by snow fields.

The following week we went to Lake Brienz and crossed to Interlaken. Here the incomparable Jungfrau loomed invitingly in the distance. The mountain would not come to us, so, like Mohammed, we went to the mountain. At Lauterbrunnen village we took the cable cars, which lifted us 2,200 feet to the famous little alpine village of Murren.

Here we had a wonderful view of Jungfrau. This maiden of the Alps appeals strangely to one. She is surpassed in beauty by Monte Rosa and in grandeur by the Matterhorn. To me she is the loveliest of mountains.

We reached the summit at sunset. I never imagined such wonderful coloring possible! The evening clouds and shadows gathered, and finally night enshrouded the peaks with its dark, silent veil. We descended half-way down the mountain and spent the night at a picturesque Swiss Inn, where we sat around the huge fireplace relating strange experiences.

The following day we journeyed to Byron's Lake Geneva, with its romantic castle of Chillon, spending two weeks there. Then we came to Zermatt. I am a real mountaineer now. You should see me attired in a rough suit, with spiked shoes, green hat adorned with a sprig of edelweiss and my "ruck-sack" strapped to my back. I somewhat resemble Pilgrim on his rough and weary way. First we ascended Monte Rosa, and two days later braved the Matterhorn. I did not enjoy climbing this mountain, and you will hardly blame me when you have heard all.

Six of us started out, tied to the same guide. After climbing for hours and hours I became frightfully fatigued and while scaling a rugged crag I slipped and turned my ankle again. "To proceed was impossible. The guide told us of several huts built to shelter stormbound climbers, instructing us to remain there until he returned, and not to attempt a descent. Jack assisted me—in fact, I was almost helpless—to the hut, a quarter of a mile from the path. He built a fire and bandaged my ankle, giving me instant relief, and I fell asleep.

I awoke several hours later, to find a tempting spread, the contents of our ruck-sack. We were ravenously hungry and ate everything in sight. At three o'clock a terrific snowstorm, in all its blinding fury, burst upon the mountain. I tried my best not to appear frightened, but as the hours wore on and inky darkness enveloped us, I wondered if the guide had forgotten to come. All night long we strained our ears for any sound which might foretell the approach of the party. Morning found the storm still raging. Jack showed signs of worry. Our food was entirely gone. At two o'clock the sky cleared and we started to descend. We hadn't gone far when we were met by a searching party. Two of them escorted us to Zermatt.

It was a wonderful experience, but I haven't the slightest desire to repeat it.

Jack just brought the dreadful news that four of the original party were lost in the storm. What a horrible fate!

Tonight we stood upon the balcony and watched the calm sunset lights burn upon the Breithorn's crest. One last, faint, rosy glimmer touched the Matterhorn. Then all grew gray and colorless. Day was done. A shudder passed over us both.

Our unusual experience has drawn us very near, dear Flora, and I appreciate his "bigness" of spirit; but I do not love him—yet. Ever fondly, JEAN.

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

Cartouche, Chief of France's "Robber Trust"

ARCHIE Frenchman, one day in 1720, chanced to meet a sad-faced, shabbily dressed young stranger at a cafe. The stranger proved a jolly companion, and at length invited the rich man home to dine with him. The latter accepted. They came to a house the guest had never before visited. But the moment he entered the place something about it seemed oddly familiar to him.

It was not until they sat down to an elaborate meal that the visitor understood the cause of this feeling. The gold dishes on the table bore his own monogram! So did the table linen and the costly hangings of the room. A second amazed glance showed him that the furniture, too, was his. He started up in bewilderment.

"Sit down, I beg," urged the stranger. "I robbed your house today of everything of value and used the plunder to furnish this little home of mine. That is why I asked you to dine with me. It seemed only fair that you should have a chance to say farewell to your treasures."

The guest whipped out his sword and rushed in fury at his host. The stranger made no effort to defend himself. Leaning lazily back in his chair, he remarked:

"I am Cartouche."

At those simple words the guest's rage turned to terror. Dropping his sword, he ran from the house in panic dread, leaving Cartouche in the undisputed possession of the stolen valuables.

This is but one of a hundred anecdotes that show the skill and impudence of France's most picturesque blackguard and the fear in which his very name was held. Louis Dominique Cartouche was born in Paris about 1693. He had not only a positive genius for crime, but an equal genius as a leader and organizer. He gathered about him, as a mere lad, a band of crooks whom he ruled with cruel discipline and who were taught to obey his slightest wish as though it were divine law.

He mapped Paris and its suburbs into regular districts, appointing a superintendent and regular staff of ruffians to each. He then evolved uncommonly clever methods of theft and highway robbery for each of these districts until no man's life or possessions were safe. By Cartouche's perfect "system" the most daring crimes were committed in open daylight and went unpunished.

"The rich," Cartouche once declared, "live that they may be robbed. That is their one excuse for existence."

He spent his wealth as rapidly as he won it. Living in magnificent style, wearing clothes and jewels such as most noblemen could not afford, he made love to women of royal birth, entertained duchesses at wonderful banquets and continued to make himself more dreaded by the public at large than was the plague itself.

"It was recorded," writes a chronicler, "that the cry, 'Here comes Cartouche,' would empty the fullest street."

But, like all others of his sort, Cartouche at last was captured. He showed no fear, when, after countless hairbreadth escapes, he found himself fast in the net of the law. He laughed at judge and jury, mercilessly taunting them, goading them to madness with stinging wit. When his death warrant was read aloud to him he halted the proceedings to point out a grammatical error in the legal paper.

For years he had baffled the police. His arrest, in 1721, was accomplished by mere chance as he sat drinking in a cafe. So shrewdly had he laid his plans that before a conviction could be secured his trial dragged on for many months and was the sensation of the whole country. He was finally condemned to a horrible death—to be "broken alive upon the wheel."

To the very last nobody believed that the wonderful Cartouche would permit himself to be executed. It was expected that, by some trick of his strange brain or by a rescue on the part of his followers, he would get away.

MAYSVILLE CITIZENS GLADLY TESTIFY AND CONFIDENTLY RECOMMEND DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Maysville citizen:

Mrs. Dora Mefford, Maysville, Ky., says:
"Doan's Kidney Pills did me a lot of good and I am glad to tell about it. I had been feeling poorly for some time, before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy and my back ached. I rested poorly and mornings I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Doan's Kidney Pills. I used them, and before long I was entirely better. I was able to sleep well and they improved my health."

When one's digestion is "out of fix" a good straightforward test of food is worth much.

Many who have suf-

that a dish of

is not only easily disists in the digestion of other food.

The power of proper food—the kind the stomach will digest, and at the same time yields nourishment—is almost unlimited.

THE OTHER SIDE IN THAT GERMANTOWN SENSATION

Parties Who Accuse Preacher, Exonerate Themselves From Charges By Signed Statement Giving the Facts
From Their Viewpoint

No Intent to Libel Any One and the Findings Are Made Public in Justice to All Parties

Every man is entitled to his day in Court.

THE PUBLIC LEDGER was free to state that there was a conspiracy between certain parties at Germantown to ruin the Rev. W. B. Garriott and drive him away from his charge because of the said Garriott's strictures against the liquor habit and other forms of immorality in that community.

In justice to said accused citizens the following statement is given full publicity in THE PUBLIC LEDGER today merely to show that there apparently was no deep laid plot to injure the minister farther than to expose his alleged approaches to the woman in the case, and further, to permit Mr.
Worthington and the other men concerned with him in this unpleasant matter, to at least make their case and statement clear before the world.

Here follows Mr. Worthington's signed statement:

Since the public has, through the medium of the newspaper received partial and misleading information concerning the charges of unsemely conduct brought by five eye witnesses against Rev. W. B. Garriott, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, at Germantown, Ky., I do not feel it my duty in behalf of the truth and of those bringing the charge that I make the following statement:

On Saturday evening, June 23rd, I was told by one of the only two persons who could have had first hand knowledge that on Friday morning, June 22nd, when she went for his laundry, and again on Saturday morning when she returned it, Mr. Garriott had made improper proposals to his landlady and was repulsed by her. Later I was told that between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday night he was looking for her "to make him rubbery pills."

The following morning I repeated what had been told me to four men. One of them a man of family and a creditable citizen said:
"I wonder if we could lay a plan to catch him?"

The landlady agreed, if Mr. Garriott again approached her, to arrange a meeting at a place designated. When in response to a call from Mr. Garriott made on Monday, July 1st, the landlady went the next morning to get his week's laundry, he renewed the proposition and an engagement was made for Wednesday night immediately after prayer-meeting. She returned his laundry Wednesday afternoon and the terms of the agreement were reiterated and agreed to.

Up to this point with the exception of his quest for her Saturday night "to make him rubbery pills," the only witness against Mr.
Garriott is the landlady, known for a kindly disposition, without malice and without motive for bringing a false charge and with no other motive for divulging what came from him than her total surprise. While the court was sitting in Maysville she was brought before it.

Mr. Garriott himself is the only witness for the defense.

What followed was witnessed by Clay Dennis, a married man, whose veracity has never been questioned; Terley Hall, a young married man, who has spent his life on the farm with his father, and whose word has never been questioned; Hyatt Pollock, a young man who is the support of a blind father, and an aged mother and an orphan niece. His word has never been questioned. James C. Browning, who has held a position of respectability with the Maysville Tobacco Society, and myself.

Before the appointed hour the five took their places. In woman's garb Terley Hall personated the landlady and the other four were in places of hiding. Not one of those men, except myself, expected that Mr. Garriott would come to the place of meeting and repeatedly said so. They all had faith in him.

Immediately after prayer meeting Mr.
Garriott came to his home and directly to the rear of his premises. As he approached the place of meeting, he whistled twice and was answered by the man in the women's dress. He approached nearer and whistled again and was answered. He then spoke to the supposed landlady calling her by name. She answered in whispers. There was other conversation, which was repeated before the investigating committee. When Mr. Garriott discovered he was caught, he exclaimed: "What does this mean?" The four men then stepped from their places of hiding and made themselves known. Silent for a few moments he started rapidly towards his house. When he had gone thirty or forty feet the five dispersed.

Mr. Garriott did not that night or the next day go to his parishioners, as would have been natural if he had been misrepresented, and ask their protection. A member of his Board of Stewards testified before the committee that having heard the rumor he asked Mr. Garriott about it.

Mr. Garriott admitted being at the place of meeting, but said the landlady sent for him.
Another member of the Board of Stewards testified that when he asked Mr. Garriott why he was on that part of his premises at that hour of the night, he said he had been misleading stuff from his garden and went up to look around. Thursday he took dinner with his neighbor and parishioner, Mr. Ira Guy, driver of the Germantown omnibus, who testified that Mr. Garriott did not mention the matter to him. Later in the afternoon, learning from others the happenings of the night before, Mr. Guy asked Mr. Garriott about it and advised him to leave town at once. Mr.
Garriott said that he would not leave town, but if it had not been for the sin of it, it would have been all over with him the night before.

If the trial had come within the week of the happening the verdict would have been different. But the landlady was sent out of town under threat, it is alleged, and friends of the minister went industriously to work to create public sentiment in his favor. He recovered from the first shock and with the aid of friends began to construct a defense.

The testimony before the committee of four preachers was an all important feature as stated in the foregoing. No character witnesses were introduced in an effort to break down the testimony of any witness. And yet the committee brought in a report of "Not Guilty," but that a trial before the Annual Conference was not necessary. Just the significance of this verdict, I do not know, nor do I know the standard of intelligence and of morality that the M. E. Church, South, requires of its ministers.

According to the sermon on the Mount a man who four days out of six makes this effort whether he succeeds or not is guilty of breaking the Sixth Commandment. It is significant that the report was not signed by Presiding Elder, E. C. H. Mann, which makes it possible to maintain the high respect for his moral and mental integrity that his bearing throughout the trial merited.

No member of any of the Boards of Stewards of the three Churches for which Mr. Garriott preaches, was present at the hearing. The investigation was before four preachers whose names have been given by the papers with Rev. E. C. B. Mann presiding.

I shrink from offending the reading public by this revolting recital; but I also shrink from resting under the implication of being a blackmailer, a perjurer or else one incapable of weighing evidence or of judging of the import of what takes place before my eyes.

Acting upon information received from this woman I went to the appointed place of meeting and took with me four witnesses. Mr.
Garriott came to the place of meeting promptly at the time indicated by the woman, and addressed her by name. If he was not there by appointment as she affirmed, why was he there at that time at all and why did he call her by name?

The public is familiar with the miscarriage of justice and its accompanying evils in the Civil Courts, but one could not expect to find the same weakness in ecclesiastical courts.
While Mr. Garriott was tried before a Court of his Church, if the finding of that Court be correct, all five of the witnesses against him are guilty of blackmail and perjury and ought to be indicted by the Grand Jury and tried in the Civil Courts.

I have been asked what motive I had in seeking to detect and to expose Mr. Garriott.
I answer that one who occupies the position of moral and religious guide in a community and who busies himself with playing detective and who accuses everyone even for the mild diversion of playing Rook, and who four days out of six is guilty of trying to commit gross immorality, deserves to be exposed and is an imposition on the community. If no one else knew of his evil tendency, he rendered himself unable to do good to at least one member of the community who believed in the goodness of some even though she could not claim to be that class herself.

I cannot conceive it to be any part of the duty of good citizenship to conceal willful and gross wrong doing of a moral shepherd of the people any more than he conceives it to be the duty of a would be shepherd to protect less important members of the community in evil doing.

If any should say, "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone," I reply that my business in the community has been to sell general merchandise by just weights and measures for fair prices and to render a strict account to my employers. I have not disqualified myself to do this work. I am not in the position of a moral leader, and, with shame I say it, I have not measured myself by the same standards by which I measure a Minister of the Gospel. I do believe, however, that this whole affair has made me see myself, life and duty in a different light, and whatever else of good or evil comes out of it, I believe I shall hereafter exact of myself conformity to higher standards than I have heretofore done. Mr.
Garriott's family have not been the only ones to suffer.

The newspapers intimated that a conspiracy had long existed to injure Mr. Garriott. This is a cheap effort to create a hero. I stoutly disclaim any knowledge of such a conspiracy and affirm that I knew of no plan to detect him in wrong doing earlier than the one formed June 30th, and I repeat that the four men who joined me went into it believing in Mr.

Garriott's integrity.

The papers, at least, some of them, further stated that the Board of Directors of the Union Mercantile Company demanded his resignation. This is utterly false. Fictitious public opinion divided as to the truth of the charges made against Mr. Garriott and his friends active in his behalf, I realized that the business of the company would for a time, at least, be hurt, and having consentated a change in the near future, I expressed to certain members of the Board my intention of resigning as General Manager when this investigation should be concluded.

I did not then anticipate that four men of sound mind, and, though unworn, under even higher obligations to find in accordance with the law and the evidence, could bring in any other verdict than "Guilty as charged." I knew what the facts testified to were, but I repeat that I did not know enough of the policy of the M. E. Church, South, to know what constituted a violation of its laws or enough of the mental workings of the members of that Court to know what to them would be convicting evidence.

The facts regarding my severing my connection with the Union Mercantile Company are set forth in a signed statement by the Board of Directors in today's PUBLIC LED-GER. I am ready to make good in open court any statement herein made and to abide by the verdict of any fair minded Judge or Jury.

NARROW ESCAPE

From Having Eyesight Destroyed
By Powder Blast

Henry Simpson, an employee at the Maysville Brick Company's Plant in the East End, had a marvelous escape yesterday morning from serious bodily harm and in having the sight of both his eyes destroyed.

He was engaged in blasting out a brick kiln at the time. A fuse that had been set and ignited failed to go off, and after waiting a considerable time he entered the pit and began digging to re-arrange the fuse. He had displaced only a few shovels of dirt when he heard a spitting noise and only had time to beat his head to one side when the blast went off and he was enveloped in a blaze.

He was painfully powder burned about the breast, arms and face, and that his sight was not destroyed was a miracle. He was brought to this city for medical attention.

"PLEDGE YOURSELF FOR TAFT OR GET OFF THE TICKET"

That is the Notice Given to All Presidential Electors Who Are Supporters of Theodore Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, July 18th.—"Give a solemn pledge to support President Taft or get off the Republican ticket," is the dictum to those Presidential electors who have signified that, if elected, they will vote for Roosevelt in the electoral college. This applies to Ohio and all other states.

Those affiliated with the President in directing his campaign are insistent that, right from the start, he shall have a vigorous deal. If Roosevelt wishes to run for the Presidency, that is his privilege, but if he violates all principles of honesty and decency in attempts to profit through electors on the regular Republican tickets in the several States, both he and the electors will be called to account.

Bowels are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Carrie McDonald, 1035 Triggs Ave., Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. Sallie E. Griffin, Veechdale, Ky., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with clients, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work. Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.
